ChatGPT, an AI generative tool, was released late last year. Since then, various industries have embraced ChatGPT, including many of those in the legal industry. AI has become integrated into countless applications that we use every day, and ChatGPT has many uses – most of which have yet to be discovered. As lawyers, how do we use it in a professionally responsible way? This panel will explain the potential for AI/ChatGPT and address some of the ethical issues that must be considered by lawyers who embrace this technology, both inside and outside of the courtroom.
